SATURDAY'S STRONG WINDS lifted the former American Skiing Company hangar at the Bethel Airport, breaking it free from its anchor bolts and shifting it several feet. By the time the steel shell came to rest it had snapped the fuselage of a 1947 Luscombe two-seater owned by Ron Boutilier of West Paris. A second airplane in the hangar at the time, a Piper Cherokee-160 low-wing four-seater owned by Randy Autrey of Bethel, received only minor damage. The hangar itself will not be replaced, according to Town (and Airport) Manager Jim Doar.

Outlook for New England ski season seen as bright

As the economy lurches toward recovery, northern New England's ski industry is viewing the upcoming season with optimism, saying the amount of snow nature sends the region is a much bigger factor in determining how well the ski areas fare.

Improvements continued through the off-season at the three states' resorts, although not on a scale as when times are better. Like other businesses, the ski areas are finding new ways to feed their patrons' enthusiasm while being creative in luring potential schussers in.

New Hampshire ski areas, for example, are sending out text messages on the latest deals and promotions.

Ski areas are also banking on their proximity to bulging eastern markets that are within a day's drive of resorts in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, hoping to draw skiers who might hop on a jet in better times and wing it to slopes in the West.

Take the carbon challenge

While enjoying an unseasonably balmy November, it can be tempting to give thanks for global warming; however, most of the effects of manmade climate change will not be so pleasant. Already parts of the world are suffering droughts or extreme weather events like bigger hurricanes or more frequent floods that may be due to the carbon dioxide we've been pumping into the atmosphere since the start of the Industrial Revolution. Even here in Maine, we're likely to see changes in our coastline due to sea level rise and storm events, a change in species of trees and wildlife as cold-weather species move north or die out, as well as changes to our agricultural crops and natural resources that bring in tourists.

Many scientists say that only a drastic reduction in carbon emissions may be able to stem the tide of climate change. While not one of us will single handedly bring about a low-carbon future, each and every one of us can take actions in our own lives and homes to reduce our "carbon footprint"— that is, the amount of climate-change causing emissions our direct actions

The New England Carbon Challenge (http://necarbonchallenge.org/) gives us an opportunity to figure out just how much climate-changing carbon we are responsible for and provides realistic options for measures we can take to reduce that footprint. The Challenge is a joint initiative of the University of New Hampshire and Clean Air — Cool Planet (www.cleanair-coolplanet.org/) that works to educate, inspire and support sustained reductions in residential energy consumption.

According to the New England Carbon Challenge website, about half of all climate-warming greenhouse gas emissions come from households through their energy consumption for motor vehicles, home heating, and electricity usage. With the Challenge's Carbon Estimator, an individual can enter some basic household data (such as number of people in the home, gallons of heating oil used, etc.) and get an estimate of the amount of carbon emitted by that household in a year. From there it gives a number of options for reducing home energy consumption and the amount of carbon (and money!) saved by taking those actions.

The New England Carbon Challenge also offers opportunities for communities and organizations (such as schools, businesses, faith-based organizations and civic groups) to get involved and be recognized as leaders in reducing energy consumption, putting these towns and groups on the Energy Challenge Map and providing them with tools, resources, strategies, and support to help households estimate their emissions, map out a plan to reduce these emissions, and chart the community's progress in achieving its carbon-reduction goals.

While not everyone feels compelled to halt climate change, almost no one will say no to saving a few bucks. The New England Carbon Challenge estimates that households that have taken the Challenge are saving about $755 a year in fuel and electricity costs. Now that's worth taking the Challenge.

To sign up your community or organization, or to find your own household carbon emissions and steps you can take to reduce your emissions and save money, go to http://necarbonchal-

Saturday's high winds took down a steel Quonset hut hangar at the Bethel Airport, damaging two planes. The hangar had been donated to the town by the American Skiing Co.

Plane owners Randy Autrey and Ron Boutilier had rented space in the hangar to store their single-engine planes.

The hangar came down around 10 a.m. "I got there within 10 min-

'VIVA THEATRE IN BETHEL'

To the Editor:

The Senior College Players are to be commended on an exceptional fall season. They not only gave great performances for the community on Nov. 21 and 22 but took their talents on the road. They performed for the WOW'S in Rumford, the Maine Senior College Conference in Portland and more recently for the third-, fourth- and fifth-grade students in our SAD44 ele-

Performing "The Trial of Goldilocks" with the fifth-graders was an exhilarating experience. If you missed seeing the players you have one more chance. They will be performing for New Year's Bethel again this year,

I heard quite a few positive comments about the costumes at this year's performance. It should be noted that each player furnishes his or her own costume and are they creative! The players have been together now for four years and have greatly enhanced their amazing talents. They also work as a team to collect their props, stage manage and handle the lighting.

I want to thank the community for being such great audiences. All your laughter certainly helps us to be even better actors. It spurs us on. Your donations for royalties and the generous donation we received from the Maine Performing Arts make it possible for us to bring our dramas to you.

We also thank the West Parish Congregational Church for allowing us to rehearse in their facility and Gould Academy for letting us perform in the McLaughlin Science Center. Senior College Players are sponsored by the Western Mountains Senior College.

Again thank you and "Viva Theatre in Bethel."

Lynn Arizzi Director, Senior College Players

IT'S JINGLE BELL RUN TIME

We have a great new activity planned for the community that we would like to let you know about and everyone is wel-

Thanks to the community spirit and generosity of Matt Bevin, of Bevin Bros. Manufacturing Co., the Bethel Rotary Club, in cooperation with the Mahoosuc Kids Assoc., and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce will be holding what we hope to become a long-standing community tradition, the First Annual Jingle Bell Run on Saturday, Dec. 5. Participating in this event is totally free of charge!

This is how the event will work. From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Bethel Rotary Club and the Mahoosuc Kids Association will have a presence at the Bethel Area Business & Home EXPO at Telstar High School in the gymnasium. All who would like to be in the Jingle Bell Run are asked to come to Telstar sometime between those hours and pick up your jingle bells (that are also free!) While you are in the EXPO, we encourage all to visit some of the other booths and enter to win one of several raffles, including two raffles to win 100 gallons of heating oil. Additionally, all who bring a canned or non-perishable food offering will receive a commemorative bell that would make a great holiday ornament.

Then, at 4:30 p.m. that same afternoon, everyone who wants to participate in the "Run" is invited to gather on the lot behind the Civil War Monument on Main Street (across from the Key Bank,) after a short welcome and making sure that all participants have their jingle bells tied to their shoelaces or boots, one of our community volunteers will line everyone up, with the littlest ones in front (parents are encouraged to jog with their little ones). At the command, everyone will jog together slowly up Main Street and around the Bethel Common to the town Christmas tree. Santa will be arriving to greet everyone and then we will light the tree to start the holiday season.

It is our hope to see hundreds of people come out for this event! We look forward to seeing you — and providing you your jingle bells — at the Telstar High School gym between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

LOTS TO DO THIS WEEKEND

To the Editor:

We have a wonderful weekend filled with events to anticipate!

The third Annual Business & Home EXPO, presented by Stanley's Furniture and Appliances and Maine Made Furniture, and scheduled for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Telstar High School gymnasium is a great way to meet and learn about nearly 50 local businesses, do some holiday shopping, and have several chances to win some terrific raffle prizes. The two grandprize raffles to be drawn at noon and at 2 p.m. are 100 gallons of fuel oil donated by Brooks Bros. and Dead River Co. Several of the exhibitors will be holding their own raffles as well,

While you are at the Telstar facility on Saturday there will be lots of other activities for you to enjoy. The Taste of Bethel, featuring a dozen Bethel area restaurants, will be held in the Telstar Cafeteria from noon till the food runs out (usually about 1:30 or so). Tastes are $1 each.

From 11 a.m. to noon, Stephens Memorial Hospital will be hosting two mini-workshops in the Health Room (just down the hall from the gymnasium). At 11 a.m., Doreen Adams, aka the Diabetes Educator, will be sharing some useful information on the prevention and treatment of diabetes, and at 11:30 a.m., the Joint Replacement Camp will be presenting. All are welcome to attend these.

The Theme Wreath Auction has become a chamber holiday tradition and it will feature up to two-dozen wreaths decorated by our local businesses. This is a silent auction and it will be located in the gymnasium this year. The closing bids will be accepted at 1:50 or so, shortly before the Business EXPO closes to the public.

The hallways next to the gymnasium will be filled with a variety of booths and tables with offerings and fundraising raffles of at least a dozen student organizations and school groups. The kids would be happy for you to take the time to stop by their tables.

Our merchants who are participating in our Buy Local promotion welcome you to present your Buy Local Rewards coupon. Remember that, in order to be eligible for the $100 in Bethel Bucks drawing on Dec. 21, you will need to visit five merchants and get them to sign the back of your coupon.

When you have five visits, the final merchant will collect your coupon to be entered into the drawing.

From 2 to 4 p.m., our sponsor Oxford Networks is providing free horse-drawn wagon rides in Bethel Village. Shortly after that, at 4:30, those wishing to participate in the First Annual Jingle Bell Run are asked to gather by the Civil War monument on Main Street, Bethel, for a 4:45 mass jog up the street to the Bethel Common.

The jingle bells, which should be tied to the shoe or bootlaces of the participants, can be picked up at the Mahoosuc Kids or Bethel Rotary booths at the Business EXPO. Santa will greet everyone on the common and we will light the Christmas tree to officially begin the holiday season.

WREATHS ACROSS AMERICA

To the Editor:

Beginning on Sunday, Dec. 6, over 150,000 donated Christmas wreaths from the state of Maine will begin their journey to over 400 state and national veterans' cemeteries all across the country as part of the annual Wreaths Across America project.

Escorted by the Patriot Guard Riders and other support groups, the wreaths will make their 18th annual trek to Arlington National Cemetery, where they will make their eventual home adorning the graves of our veterans — a solemn tribute to those who serve and those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

The Wreaths Across America story began over 18 years ago when the Worcester Wreath Company from Harrington, Maine, initiated a tradition of donating and placing wreaths on the headstones of our nation's fallen heroes at Arlington National Cemetery. Recognition of the service and sacrifice of our veterans, and their families, is especially poignant during the traditional holiday season.

Worcester Wreath Company continues to be a major supporter of the project, donating over 25,000 total wreaths in 2008. Over 100,000 wreaths will be sponsored by individuals, businesses, and groups from communities nationwide.

Wreaths will be placed in all 50 states from Maine to Alaska and Hawaii, at several locations is Iraq, and at 24 national cemeteries on foreign soil.

For people who wish to support the project, wreath sponsorships are available online. A complete list of participating locations is available on the website at www.WreathsAcrossAmerica.

DR. SHAW TO MERGE PRACTICE

To the Editor:

Bethel has seen many changes since Becky and I opened our optometric office on lower Main Street 34 years ago, but retains much of the same community connectiveness of visiting with fellow residents on the street, in the grocery store, and at the post office.

Optometry, too, has changed much during this period, consistently expanding its knowledge base and broadening the scope of eye care and vision services we can offer our patients. I have $found this \,process \,personally \,and \,professionally \,energizing \,and \,rewarding, \,and \,I\,am \,pleased \,that$ optometry is still a healthcare profession devoted to helping people take care of their eyes and vision. It seems the time has come to make some changes in my practice here in Bethel.

The precipitating event in this decision was a punishing fall Thanksgiving weekend 2008, which dislocated three cervical vertebrae, pinching two nerves and causing direct pressure on my spinal cord. I lost much of the strength and dexterity in my left arm and hand.

Twas a painful and frustrating winter; I was unable to ski and physically limited in the hours I was able to work. Although the damage was repaired the following March by a gifted neurosur-geon, Dr. John B. Wahlig, Jr., I was confronted with two facts and one question: I am not indestructible; I cannot practice optometry forever; how can I ensure continuity of eye and vision care for the people of Bethel?

Dr. Linda Cameron, Dr. Peter Everett, and I have spent more than a year discussing merging my practice in Bethel with their practice, Mountain View Eye Care, in Rumford. Dr. Cameron is the current president and Dr. Everett a past president of the Maine Optometric Association. Dr. Everett, a Hanover native and expert on Death Valley, is a

1980 graduate of Bowdoin College and a 1984 graduate of the New England College of Optometry. He is a member of the local "Peak-a-Week" hiking club and enjoys skiing, hiking and boating in the local mountains and lakes. Dr. Cameron graduated from Rumford High School in 1989, Bowdoin College in 1993, and the New England College of Optometry in 1997. She is a member of the Rumford Hospital Board of Trustees, and she lives in Rumford with her husband and their two sons. I hold both Dr. Cameron and Dr. Everett in high personal regard and professional respect and feel fortunate that we have this opportunity before us. We plan to close the Main Street office for about a week to refurbish and upgrade the new satellite office of Mountain View Eye Care.

Changes will include some new equipment, a computerized appointment and record-keeping system, and some new fashion frames and lens options. Records will interface with those at the main office on Franklin Street in Rumford.

Initially, Dr. Cameron or Dr. Everett will see patients here in Bethel one day a week. This will allow historical patients of their Rumford office (or those who just plain don't like me - can't please everyone, you know) to receive eye care without leaving Bethel. I will continue my usual hours Tuesdays and Thursdays and, of course, am available 24/7 for treatment of eye injuries and

Please watch for information about an open house to showcase the new office and welcome Dr. Everett and Dr. Cameron to our town. Lennie Shaw, O.D.

REMEMBERING AUNT BERTHA

To the Editor:

Perhaps we should not think of Aunt Bertha as one of those women who was going to wait until she was old to wear purple. She was doing that 40-plus years ago.

Bertha Jordan Flanders was her own woman. Independent, generous, funny beyond belief and she loved a laugh and good time. It is hard to think of Aunt Bertha as a serious Christian woman that was growing old. In her later years, normal decline of the body was expected, but she still kept the twinkle in her eye that she had to the end. When we were in the process of starting the Greenwood Historical Society, she was one of our greatest sources. She gave you a description of an event that happened maybe 1915-18 and it was accurate to a T right down to what she had been served for supper at the friend's house, "crackers and milk." You could always go to her for a genealogical consultation, and for all the years I knew her never, not even once, an unkind or out-of-the-way remark.

We all knew her as children. We all loved and respected her. She loved kids, not only her own family's children but the rest of us in town too. We never would have played tricks on her, but she was first in line for a May basket in those days. We thought that Kelly Morse had the greatest aunt; she was a kooky type but always had cookies and was glad to see us. She gave out the best Halloween candy, always remembered us for birthdays, anniversaries, etc., well into our 40s and 50s. She had a serious method. She was a gentle, kind woman widowed early in life

She and her mother were a regular installment at the Locke Mills Union Church in my youth. Bertha worked and worked hard at the mill, but she found time to enjoy her life - little trips as a grand representative for the O.E.S., a Grange member for over 75 years, a good neighbor.

She lived quietly on her corner of God's good green earth, but the things that she did, often quietly and without fanfare, will last for many, many years to come in the numerous lives she touched. I told a grand niece of hers recently that I still remember her always saying, "that, there," it was her signature.

If any of us leave this good earth with half the faith and courage Aunt Bertha had we sure will be doing well. Rest in Peace.

erally on-snow "fun stuff," said General Manager Dana Bullen, But the second day is a more serious sit-down.

'Sunday River makes presentation about where it's at and what's ahead," Bullen said, and gets feedback from the council members.

From there, each meeting focuses in on a particular aspect of the business. For example, the topic for the most recent meeting was revenue — and how to generate more

"We asked the council members for ideas we could run through our Revenue Committee," Bullen said — "asking them in effect: 'How do you guys see where we're missing revenue?""

Over the course of these interactions, the council members, many of them successful business people in their own right, get an inside look at how Sunday River does business.

"When we talk to them, it's beyond the feel-good stuff," Bullen said, "It's the realities of running a business, so they come to understand parts of this that are more proprietary than what we share with the general public."

Evan Hackel, president of Locke Mountain Townhouse Homeowners Association, has been on the council since it was formed.

"I commend Sunday River for having the council," said Hackel, who is also president of Ingage Cousulting of Woburn, Mass.

"They clearly value the input of the community at large. I've found Sunday River to be very honest and forthright, and I've gained a greater appreciation for the difficulties of running a ski resort," Hackel said.

"When you think about it, they are running a ski area, restaurant complex, hotel complex, nightclub complex, real estate development, real estate sales and retail stores.

"They're in a lot of different businesses, with huge seasonality changes that are also very weather dependent.

"In the process," Hackel said, "I've gained a lot of respect for their management team."

The concluding session of each meeting, Bullen said, "is set aside for the members to talk, to tell us what they're hearing in their own communities, what interactions with the resort have been like.

"It's great feedback and an avenue for us to understand what people are saying and feeling about where we're going and what we're doing," Bullen said — "where we're doing really well and where we've got some opportunities to improve."

the snow is abundant, the ski areas do well, he said.

That's borne out as well in New Hampshire, where an all-time high as measured by skier visits was recorded two years ago.

But even after the economy tanked last season, enough skiers showed up to give the industry its third-best winter, thanks in large part to the plentiful snowfall, said Karl Stone, marketing director for Ski New Hampshire.

"If it snows, it seems like we're doing pretty good,' said Stone.

In Maine, the severe recession last winter sent many skiers and boarders to the smaller, family-friendly ski areas for which the state is known, said Greg Sweetser, executive director of the Ski Maine Association.

While skier visits were down 2 percent in the state last season, Maine gained a little of New England's market share. Sweetser added.

and snowboarders. "People are passionate about skiing and riding. They still seek the sport out. It's really a lifestyle they choose," said Hawks. "Even during a poor economy, the ski industry holds up well."

Skier enthusiasm isn't everything.

While ski areas try to outdo each other by opening first and strive to kick off their seasons by Thanksgiving, it's the back end of the season that's more critical to success, said Vermont's Rie-

ANDOVER WALKERS-Dora Morton, Barbara Simmons, Sharon Hutchins, Robin Williams, Jeannette Hutchins, Caroline Merrill, Carol Melzar on a recent Sunday afternoon walk in Andover. The numbers on the group walks can vary widely, with as many as 12 to 15 turning out.

To help the walkers set goals, the committee offers a free reflective vest when each participant reaches 25 miles.

At 50 miles, they receive a T-shirt featuring images of the four seasons in Maine. "About 30 people have earned vests, and 15 to 20 shirts," said Morton. Barbara Simmons has the vest, and is only a couple of miles away from a shirt. But for her, it's about dedi-

"I used to walk once in a while," she said. "But now I work at my walking more. I'm committed."

Because of a foot condition, she's one of the slower walkers on the group walks, she said. But that's fine - everyone walks a personal pace, she said.

Long before joining the Andover group, Carol Melzar used to walk with another woman, logging 3.5 miles a

"I missed the walking and socializing," she said. Now, "the time flies by with other people to walk with. It keeps me healthy, both physically and mentally.

"I love to get out in the fresh air." And, she said, Morton is always providing encouragement — and reminders.

"She'll ride by on her bike and say, 'Don't forget we're walking today,'" said Melzar. And despite walking in generally familiar territory, said Melzar, "I'm seeing places I've never seen before.

That includes the woods and trails along the Grimaldi Field, she said.

Both Simmons and Melzar have high praise for the Rec Committee's effort.

The "Cotton Tops" In West Paris, a group of ten 70- and 80-somethings share a decade's worth of walking. They call themselves the 'Cotton Tops.' Eleanor Inman is among

"The walking began as ladies of the Universalist-Unitarian Church decided to meet at the church, and walk around Pioneer Street, to Main Street, and back to the church, three days a week," she said.

The loop covers about two miles.

"When the ladies began their walking, it was a venture that several women had been doing in a nearby town.

"It has just kept on, as the gals found that it was fun walking with others, and very beneficial, healthwise. Off and on others join us," said Eleanor.

And a little Maine weather doesn't deter them.

"These souls are hardy," she said. "They plan to walk, unless it is below zero, or icy. Some walk in the rain or snow."

This year, the group has also traveled to Bethel to walk the Pathway trail.

Wherever they walk, they reward themselves breakfast afterward at a nearby diner or restaurant.

The most regular members are Ruth Hazelton, Beverly Stevens, Maxine Cram, DeDe Chase, Joyce and Cynthia Lamb, Peg and Joe Përham, and Eleanor and Milt Inman.

But, notes Eleanor, while Joe Perham walks faithfully, "Milt isn't a regular. He walks occasionally to help Joe take care of the women."

For anyone interested in joining the outings, the group typically walks from the church at 8 a.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fri-

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Another Thanksgiving is now history and a fine one it was too. The food was great, if I do say so myself. But, to me, what's even better than the food was the great conversation around the dinner table that lingered long after the last piece of pumpkin pie. That's my favorite part about the holiday.

Now we gear up for the biggest holiday of the year. Christmas is coming and I don't know if the goose is getting fat, but with all the holiday goodies that will be in abundance over the next few weeks I'm sure that I'll put on a pound or two.

I had to work on Black Friday so I was not one of the many who lined up in the wee hours of the cold morning at Wal Mart or other big box stores.

Even if I didn't have to work I still wouldn't have been a shivering body in the crowd on Friday morning. If getting up before the crack of dawn and standing out in the cold for the sake of some good deals is your thing, then I say more power to you.

I, on the other hand like to sleep and I really, really hate being cold. I'm sure I'm missing out on some great bargains, but items on my shopping list would have to be darn near free before I would drag myself out of a warm bed to go stand outside a store in the darkness.

Cyber Monday is more my speed. That's a day of online specials available right at my fingertips in the warm comfort of my own home. I didn't even know that Cyber Monday existed, but I happened to go to a website in search of a particular electronic gizmo and found a Cyber Monday 20% discount and free shipping. And, I didn't get a single goose bump.

Maybe we should evaluate the spirit of giving rather than the gift.

As easy and convenient as online shopping is I do suffer some guilt for not shopping at the local stores. Even though the electronic gizmo I wanted is not available locally, I am guilty of having bought other items over the Internet that could have just as easily have been bought through a local retailer. By local retailer I don't mean the big box stores; I don't think they care if you buy from their website or in person. I mean the small retail stores that depend on the Christmas season sales to get them through the lean winter months ahead.

Now, I not only feel guilty, I feel cheap and dirty like I worked a deal with a total stranger to save a buck rather than help a friend. What a way to start the holiday season!

I'll end my remorse by doing as much shopping as I can at local stores so I can feel a little better about myself. I'll actually feel much better about myself once I get all my shopping done no matter where I do it. The race is on and within a couple of weeks everyone's stress level will be stretched to the max.

Stop! Stop! Take a deep breath before you get stressed. Maybe, before the Christmas season is in full swing we should all spend a little time reflecting on the reason for the season. Maybe we should evaluate the spirit of giving rather than the gift.

Money is in short supply for most of us so maybe it would be better spent on supplies to make some gifts. There are people, I'm not one of them, who can knit, sew, crochet or have carpentry skills. All of the talents needed to make creative gifts.

Even I, who have little talent at all, can make candy and cookies that are pretty darn good and make great gifts too.

Just think about all the time and money saved by making many of the gifts we plan to give. That would free up time to enjoy the season, go to tree lightings, take a sleigh ride and listen to the carolers sing the songs of Christmas.

The way I see it that would be worth standing out in the cold to enjoy.

and at least one structure at the Bethel airport. Early in the afternoon wind knocked down a large tree on Woody Hughes' lawn at the corner of Kilborn and Chapman streets. The tree fell onto power lines and landed on Kenneth Bohr's lawn, creating a power outage in that part of town. Lucas Tree had the tree cut up and CMP had power restored by late after-

Jane Young and Rick and Melissa Young had Thanksgiving Day dinner with Kathy and John Marzilli in Naples.

Rain, rain, go away! It is getting a little tiresome to see so many cloudy and/or rainy days. Another 1.5 inches fell Friday night, once more swelling the brooks and rivers, And then there was the wind! Many trees were downed along the forest road and elsewhere. One huge one near Barry Carver's house on the Grover Hill Road not only blocked the road, but knocked out power for Grover Hill residents.

With all this rain we are fast becoming the Northeast Temperate Rain Forest. Some years back Mike and I visited the Olympic Peninsula in Washington state. We hiked and fished in the Hoh Rain Forest there, a temperate rain forest (and no relation to the Hoeh family). Undergrowth here is looking more and more like what we saw there. Were this all snow, we would be singing a different tune, and the ski areas would be celebrating.

Thanksgiving weekend was a busy time for all. Linda and Reg Westleigh were guests of their daughter, Lisa Pivin. Linda's Aunt Isabel Bennett from Massachusetts joined the party and stayed with Linda until Saturday, Also present at the feast were Paul Pivin; Laura Pivin and her fiancé, Patrick Crockett (April wedding on the docket!), and Brandon, Annie, and Maddie Costello. Sounded like a lovely family gathering.

Mike and I had our daughter, Kate Griffin, and her family, husband Ken and sons Owen and Robbie, from Thursday to Saturday. We all trooped over to the Siegels' home on Shamrock Road Thursday for the big feast. Everyone contributed to the dinner and/or the cocktail hour which preceded it. Martha, as hostess, did the lion's share of work, and everything was beautiful. Joining us for cocktails were the Uber-Thompsons, friends from Boston who have a vacation home on the Flat Road.

After barely digesting the Thanksgiving meal, the Hoehs and Griffins rode down to the Thompsons' on Friday for a great revisiting of their Thanksgiving, prepared by their longtime friend and surrogate granny to their children, Monique Monroe. And the pounds kept piling on.

Just after the Griffins left on Saturday (they had to return Owen to UMass/Amherst), the Stancioffs of Chesterville arrived for another "leftover" meal here. Cyndy Stancioff is our oldest daughter. Her husband, Paul, teaches at UMF. Elisabeth, 20, is a sophomore at Brown University, and Louisa, 16, is a sophomore at Mt. Blue High School. We were joined by Bonnie Pooley and the Siegels as we made additional dents in the leftover turkey. More meals to come. One of my readers who lives in Connecticut and has a camp on Round Pond in Locke Mills, Ruth Blakney Bayer, wrote to say that she has been observing the same dearth of the usual songbirds at her feeders that we have had here. I'm happy to report, however, that over the last few days the birds seem to be slowly coming back. We've seen a couple of red-breasted nuthatches, half a dozen or so chickadees, and a number of goldfinches. So maybe they've all just been waiting for some colder weather. Time will tell.

Yesterday was the Bethel Amiable Arachnes' annual Christmas party at the home of Doreen Simmons over in South Paris. We had a potluck luncheon, a Yankee Swap, and an all-round good time schmoozing.

Saturday morning will see the annual greens sale at the West Bethel Union Church. Also on this Saturday afternoon is the Christmas Fair at the West Parish Congregational Church. The holidays are upon us.

Thanks to the wind, most of the leaves that were on the lawn have been blown away. Mother Nature helped us again! Last week and this I picked up 40 cents' worth of returnables. Could be worse. Be in touch. dhoeh a megalink. net; 836-3011.

Gilead

Lin Chapman Hopefully, everyone had a great Thanksgiving, and it was good that he rainy and windy weather held off until Friday and Saturday. The town lost power for three hours on Friday night due to some problem on the North Road.

My brother, Steve McLain, filled me in on what he did for Thanksgiving. He and Lise went to Jennifer and Lee Norris' house for a late dinner. Also present were Aline Dupont, who is Jennifer's mother, Gerard Dupont, Bradley Norris, Ryan Stowell and Jarrod and Paige Crockett.

Sandra Laughy is recovering nicely at Norway Rehab after a brief stay in the hospital. According to her sister, Mary Tyler, Sandra hopes to be coming home soon. Lise McLain took her father, Gerard Dupont, to Berlin for a doctor's appointment one day last week. Hugh and I went to the craft fair at the Bethel Inn Conference Center last Friday. We picked up a few Christmas presents. Alice Strait, from Gilead, was set up and selling those beautiful cards that she creates from pictures she has taken.

After stopping at the craft fair, we went to the Bethel Historical Society. Dean Bennett was there to present a program on his new book "Nature and Renewal, Wild River Valley & Beyond" and to sign copies.

It was very interesting since the Wild River valley and Hastings have always had a connection to Gilead, Arthur "Joe" Taylor also attended the program. He helped Mr. Bennett with research for the book. He did several guided trips, along with Lyle Wiggin, to interesting places around Hastings. If you are interested in the area, this is a good book to pick up at the Bethel Historical Society.

On Feb. 14, 1931, the Upton Grange held its 616th regular meeting, Georgia McCurdy and Bertha Judkins were appointed to arrange the Town Meeting dinner and a whist party in March. Mrytle Pratt was elected secretary. Katherine Abbott, Mrytle Pratt, Cora Abbott Georiga McCurd and Bertha Judkins supplied the literacy program. The grange had a total of $16.25 in their account. Joe Bernier and Rose Stevens were at the planning board meeting Friday, but there was no quorum. The next meeting will be the last Friday in February.

Bob and I got home about 1 a.m. on Saturday. There were a couple big rigs stranded in the notch. The state plow left about a two-foot snow bank at the end of Back Street. We "plowed" through that to find that the road hadn't been touched by a plow. There were tracks of two vehicles that had gone down earlier. We made it home and were grateful that no emergency vehicles had been called to a home on Back Street; it's doubtful they'd have been able to respond. There was no electricity all night, we got about six inches of very heavy snow, and the wind was howling like a banshee.

I got some pictures of a barred owl that was hunting in our driveway — our little dog stayed inside.

When you get the outside of your home/yard decorated, contact a Ladies Aid member if you want to be in the running for prize for the most gorgeous decorations. The judging will be on Dec. [11, the same day as the caroling and hot chocolate. Come join the festivities!

The kids have been working on a Christmas program that promises to be a "don't miss" event. It'll be on Dec. 12 at the schoolhouse.

Have a wonderful week.

Brenda Bartholomew and her dear friend Roxanne Bennett Wentworth from north of Errol stopped in for a visit after visiting Eden and baby Lucian B. Johnston in South Paris. They brought many packages of tea and delicious shortbread in a container full of great dishtowels for me. Thursday, Mark and I had our noon meal at his place. We went for a short walk afterward before I drove back to my Bethel residence.

On Friday, Jean Gardner was in Bethel. She spent the night here. I am so glad she had her laptop with her. Jean showed me many pictures of West Palm Beach, Fla., both from the ground and from the air. I have never been to Florida and enjoyed all of the photos tremendously.

The Bear River Trading Post is still continuing to sell hunting scents and lures. By Saturday evening a total of 99 deer had been tagged. The new type of deer season started on Nov. 30 for two weeks of black powder hunting. Chili is still available at the Trading Post along with coffees and many snacks. Cameo materials are now reduced in price. Warm gloves are still available to keep you warm on these chilly morning. Give them a call at 824-2327 if you have questions, those horrid Christmas commercials, movies, and songs that we will see and hear again and again until Dec. 25!

Now I'm hearing that there is a great controversy over what to call your tree. Is it a Christmas tree or holiday tree? Good heavens people get a life, or better yet don't get a tree at all and save money on your electricity bill. Hope Peterson has decided that she will call her tree Fred sounds good to me. Yeah, I know, bah humbug!

Don't forget that there is a Christmas Craft Fair on Dec. 12. I think it's a great idea that this year there will be two places to shop — the Fire Station and the CE Building at the First Congregational Church.

Vickie and Marshall Meisner have done it again. The Christmas/Holiday tree on the common is a thing of beauty. Every year they do such a good job. Thanks to you both, and Vickie, don't let Marshall take all the credit. Thanks to Steve and Bonnie Marston for donating the tree, and thanks to Pam Berry who brought and arranged the flowers on the common and in front of the headstones. Everything looks wonderful!

Megan and Ethan Meisner spent the holiday with Vickie and Marshall, and Greatgreat-grammy Lorena. I don't know how Megan does it. She is a full-time mother, has a 3.8 grade average at Boston College in social sciences and works part-time. She will graduate in May; our family is very proud of her.

Clarence Bailey is back home after giving everyone a scare and having to go to hospital.

I had to go shopping this morning at Wal-Mart, and I want to thank Bonnie, the clerk at the jewelry counter for the patience and help she gave me. See 'ya.

Someone told me that I could phone Trac Fone and have the minutes transferred to a new phone and also have the same phone number as the old one. After a few days, I decided to try that. I bought a new $20 Trac Fone at Wal-Mart. The call to Trac Fone was time consuming, but I finally achieved what I wanted: transferred minutes, my year's service and retained the same phone number. Snuffy is a really good dog, but he has one annoying habit (besides getting scented by skunks). He eats Kleenix (facial tissues)! While at my daughter Anita's in South Dakota, he also ate a roll of toilet paper! We thought we had solved the first problem by putting covered wastebaskets in both bathrooms, but he has figured out how to tip over the wastebaskets and still eat the tissues therein! So, we try to remember to keep the upstairs bathroom door closed. Then one day a week, or so, ago, he ate half a roll of toilet paper (one end) in the downstairs bath while it was still on the holder! Dogs just have no "couth" at all! We now keep the toilet paper on top of the vanity, where he has so far not found it.

Deer season has ended, and I had another unsuccessful hunt. At least, I did see the south end of three large northbound deer on the final day of hunting, but they were waving goodbye, and I didn't have an open shot at them. There were also no visible antlers on the ends that I could see!

I noticed one interesting wrinkle of nature while hunting in a large clear cut (technically, not quite a clear cut by LURC regulations due to a few small trees here and there). There were quite a few small fir trees around five-feet tall; the moose had trimmed most of these trees by eating all the branches along the little tree trunks, leaving small tufts of green at the tops. The nubs of branches had sprouted new green needles, resulting in skinny little green columns topped by green tufts, as though a gardener had pruned them. The moose are also trimming most of the hardwood sprouts, which grow out of the stumps to a height of around four to five feet. This leaves blackberry bushes as the tallest growths in much of the logged areas.

Mount Dimmock was covered with snow. There is nothing unusual about that this time of year. It did snow hard Friday evening along with lots of rain and high winds. Also, seeing snow on Mount Dimmock Sunday morning was not unusual. It is a sure sign that winter is bearing down on us and no doubt there will soon be snow everywhere.

The storm started late Thanksgiving Day, lasted all day Friday and into Saturday morning with rain and snow making many roads slick. High winds dropped trees everywhere shutting off electricity in many areas. Residents along the Howard Pond line were without power for two Dede Chase joined Lisa and Ron Darling and family at a gathering of 18 for their dinner, To celebrate the holiday Dede Chase was also entertained by her son Randy, his wife Wendy, and granddaughter Becky.

I was in Augusta with daughter Peggy, her husband Mike Seaton, and daughter Jude and her husband Rob Collins. It was a quiet and pleasant day.

Bruce and Cindy Clement and children Sarah and Kyle, Eric and Tamhra and Conor were guests of Marta Clement during the week. Her brother, John Rhode, was there to help celebrate Thanksgiving.

And so it goes. It is December and the weather has been unseasonably warm. I can live with that, but the rains are a little tiring. It was amazing last Saturday in the wind and rain to watch the chickens just hanging out. They didn't seem to care that it was raining and out getting wet. And yet they still laid eggs. Good chickens. We are getting 10-15 eggs a day. I like that. We sell them to Fare Share Coop in Norway and Morning Dew in Bridgton. Sometimes I also just sell them to friends and, of course we give them to family and friends. It works out well, David does all the work with the chickens and I clean the eggs and sell them. That way they don't bother my asthma.

Our Thanksgiving was great and I hope everyone else's was too. We went to Becky and Jeff's and had a great meal. I made a cranberry relish that came out quite good. The church in Oxford sent all the rest. Thank you.

Then on Sunday we got friends Darrel and Rachel and went to the Rotary Breakfast. Yummy!

Sunday, Dec. 6, there will be a benefit concert for Beth Collin's House at Fare Share Commons with Ukulele lady, Bob Wallace, and Rusty Wilbur. Suggested donation is $5 or more. Toddlers are free. FMI call 388-2669.

Saturday, Dec 5, at Waterford Library there will be a Christmas Craft workshop

A STATE OF THE STA

Mahoosuc Community Band

The Mahoosuc Community Band will have its annual Holiday Concert Sunday, Dec. 6, at 4 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel.

The concert will include a variety of traditional favorites and newer selections. Music includes "A Christmas Portrait," "C'Est Noel" (It's Christmas), "Sleigh Ride," "Greensleeves," "Nutcracker Suite," and a featured suite, "Folk Song Suite" by R. Vaughn Williams.

This is a great way to start the holiday season. Refreshments following the concert allow time to visit with the musicians. Donations help with music and instrument purchases and ongoing costs to run the volunteer community band.

The band has been bringing music to the greater Bethel area for approximately 16 years. It was formed to share music when the music program was eliminated from SAD44, as a cost-saving effort. Since then the band has grown to include people from Hanover, Dixfield, Waterford, and South Paris, as well as Telstar High School and Gould Academy. It's a group of people of all ages that just enjoy making music together. Rehearsals are Monday nights from 7 to 8:45 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church base-

Following the December concert, the band takes a break until Jan. 4. The band plays for Music in the Schools in February, to encourage younger musicians. School musicians are also encouraged to join the Monday night rehearsals and enhance their Middle School or High School music programs. The band also plans a spring concert in May before summer performances and parades for Mollyockett Day and Memorial Day.

Wild River Valley Book Signing

On Nov. 27, Dean Bennett, author of "Nature and have been like here nearly Renewal; Wild River Valley two centuries ago. Live peri- and Beyond," presented to od music will be provided by more than 30 people in attendance at a Power Point program and later signed copies of his recently published book in the exhibit hall of the Dr. Moses Mason House. The Power Point presentation highlighted the content of his book, which documents the story of Wild River Valley, a magnificent wilderness in a relatively unknown valley, circumscribed by high, steep mountains.

It also contains tales of the County Registry of deeds and valley's rogue river, Wild River; of a raging wildfire and the disappearance of an entire village community; of both land abuse and land stewardship; of ecological disaster and renewal; of nature's vulnerability and resiliency; and of people who experienced tragedy and good fortune. Amazingly, through the centuries a single mighty hemlock tree survived to be a living witness to it all.

Dean Bennett, who has spent a lifetime exploring the natural world and its human connections, brings to mind vividly this surprising story of the power of nature to renew. Illustrated with photographs and maps and Bennett's beautiful illustrations, Nature and Renewal has a message for everyone.

Issued by Tilbury House Publishers of Gardiner, Maine, the book contains 340 pages and retails for $16.

During November and December, members of the Bethel Historical Society are eligible for a 20 percent discount on copies of the Wild River book, plus other regularly priced items available. Ski Exhibit

"Sunday An exhibit, River, Mt. Abram and More! Celebrating the Skiing Heritage of the Bethel Area" opened on Saturday, Nov. 21, at the Bethel Historical Society's O'Neil Robinson House, Co-sponsored by the Ski Museum of Maine, this exhibition commemorates the 50th anniversary of the creation of the Sunday River and Mt. Abram Ski resorts as well as the rich skiing heritage of the Bethel area.

This display includes period photographs and artifacts relating to the development of Alpine and Nordic skiing in Maine from the 1870s to the present. Scott Andrews. a Portland-based ski journalist and board member of the Ski Museum of Maine, assisted the project as a guest curator for the exhibit. Later that evening, he presented a Power Point lecture, "Schussboom and Schuss-bust: Maine Skiing's Fast Paced Growth and Face-plants, 1945-2009."

In his presentation, Andrews traced the history from the post-World War II boom years, including Sunday River. Mt. Abram and Black Mountain. Dozens of other ski areas founded in the 1950s-1970s closed forever, among them the "Big A" (also known as Mt. Agamenticus) in York and Evergreen Valley in Lovell-Stoneham.

The exhibit is open throughout the year, Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and by appointment.

Jerry, that Christmas tree is magnificent! Where in the world did you get it?
Well, Ben, you know that beautiful parcel we listed on Rt. 2 across from the Riverview in Bethel with the splendid mountain vista views? Jerry, if you're referring to Jane & John Doe's land, which Mom and Dad have listed, not you. I agree it is magnificent. But, what does this have to do with this specific tree?

Well, Ben, selective clearing is beneficial on a property such as this, so I gave the Does the Holiday gift of giving my personal services to cut & clear this overgrown beauty. Free of charge, by the way.

Speaking of clearing, Jerry, did you clear this with the Does or Mom and Dad?

You know, Ben, even at 2 dog years of age, my memory fails me at times.

Yes, Jerry, it is called "selective" memory and you'd best remember never to do this again without permission. As far as that Rile. 2 parcel goes, however, you are right, it is splendiforous and definitely worth considering should one be in the market to (eah, Ben, & to make up for my oversight, I am offering to help supervise the further clearing of any trees on this property exchange for some of the harvest. You see. I've a vision - you, me, a simple pick-up truck with a rustic yet attention ign right smack on the interstate where we will self our Holiday greenery. Talk about a gravy train. In, Brother, I'm taking you to Doc Stuer's for your meds, immediately!
